MILITIAMEN WAIT FOR NEXT ORDERS

Thirty-five of the Original Company Report to Captain Abel Ready For Active Duty.

DRILL PRACTICE HELD TODAY

Guardsmen Making Final Preparations Before Leaving for Ft. Benjamin Harrison.

Members of the local company of Indiana National Guards are patiently waiting their turn at watchful waiting. The company's headquarters in the Odd Fellows' building have been the scene of great activity since Captain Oscar B. Abel was officially notified to mobilize his men at the home station. Quartermaster D. L. Prall has been busy distributing the suits and equipment to the original members of the company and fitting out the new recruits.

According to information from the militia headquarters in Indianapolis Governor Ralston will likely issue a general mobilization order Friday or Saturday. The soldiers will first go to Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, where they will remain until the orders are received to move to the border. It is probable that the state troops will be detained at Ft. Benjamin Harrison for a month and maybe longer. After the troops are mobilized at the state camps they will be ready to move in accordance with the orders of the war department. General Funston, who is in command of the border forces, will call upon the state militia throughout the country as needed. It is probable that some of the Indiana soldiers may not get to the border. However, there is nothing definite regarding this as the war department has not announced its plans.

Captain Abel today put his men through their first drills since the mobilization order was received here. The men executed the maneuvers on Chestnut street in front of the Odd Fellows' building. As soon as they reach Ft. Benjamin Harrison drilling will become part of the daily

ENLISTMENT IS LARGER TODAY THAN ON MONDAY

Indiana National Guard Has Reached Peace Strength—2,500 Under Arms.

RACE TO BE FIRST IN CAMP

By United Press.
Indianapolis, June 20.—The Indiana National Guard reached peace strength today. Adjutant General Bridges in a statement issued at noon today estimated that 2,500 militiamen are under arms in the state. Reports on recruiting show a larger enlistment today than yesterday.

With their companies nearing war strength, Indiana militia officers began a race for the honor of being the first to reach Ft. Benjamin Harrison. The companies at Terre Haute, Goshen and Indianapolis appeared to be leading in the race.

Governor Ralston and Adjutant-General Bridges were still undecided when the mobilization order would be given, but it was officially stated that the first guardmen would probably go into camp at Ft. Harrison Friday or Saturday.

FINGER TORN OFF IN A CORN CRUSHING MACHINE

Paris Wingler, Near Driftwood, Meets With Painful Accident—Hand Caught on Prongs of Cutter.

Paris Wingler lost a finger this morning while crushing corn on his farm near Driftwood. Mr. Wingler was preparing to feed when the accident happened. He was placing corn in the crusher when the prongs of the machine caught the forefinger of his left hand practically amputating it. No one was present at the barn at the time and it was some time before a physician was able to get to the injured man.

MANY ANSWER THE CALL TO ARMS

Recruiting Volunteers for Company K Keeps Officers Busy—Many Fail to Pass.

THREE ACCEPTED YESTERDAY

Poor Teeth Prevents Many Applicants From Being Accepted, According to Lieut. Kyte.

Many men have answered the call to arms of Capt. Abel, of Company K, and have presented themselves for enlistment in the national guard. Of the number, however, only three had been accepted up until this morning. The others could not pass the strict medical examination required, and had to be refused. The recruiting is in charge of Lieut. E. G. Kyte, of the medical corps of the Second Infantry.

According to Lieut. Kyte, poor teeth have disqualified more men than any other one defect, three or four volunteers losing out in their desire to serve their country on this account alone. Dr. Kyte explained that especial attention is given to the applicants' teeth, because two or three days in a rain-soaked trench would, in many cases, bring on rheumatism and other complaints. "We are not recruiting men for the hospital and the pension list, but for active service," he said.

The physical examination now being used in the national guard is identical to the same as that of the regular army. The applicant must be at least 5 feet, 4 inches tall, and should weigh at least 2 pounds to the inch.

The three men who were accepted yesterday were Howard Clark, O. O. Gibson and H. E. Brooks. Many others were being examined this afternoon and several more men will probably be added to the company's roster before tonight. Dr. Kyte's office has been a busy place all day. As soon as the applicant reports to Capt. Abel and satisfactorily answers the regulation questions he is turned over to Lieut. Kyte for the physical examination. If he passes this test, the oath is administered to him and he is formally mustered into service.

Capt. Abel feels confident that enough recruits will be secured to boost the roster up to sixty-five, the minimum strength required by the war department. Many members who have been out of the city are returning, and by tomorrow it is believed the company will be able to put its full strength in the field.

The first meeting of the Southern Indiana Independent Telephone Owners' Association since his organization several months ago was held in this city today. Mayor John A. Ross welcomed the visitors to the city at the morning session at the city building. He spoke on the "Relation Between the Public Utility and the Public." He pointed out that the utility has certain obligations to perform for the public and that its success depended upon the manner in which it conducted its business. Mayor Ross extended a cordial welcome to the visitors and told them to make themselves at home.

The response was given by William A. Wallace, of Washington, who on

SUPPLY TRAINS ON WAY TO THE BORDER

One Consisting of Fifty-one Cars and Another of Forty-four Pass Through This City.

ENROUTE FROM WASHINGTON

Baltimore & Ohio Company Will Likely Handle Large of Troop Trains in Case of Intervention.

Although no official information has come to the local offices of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern Railroad, it is expected that during the next week or ten days a number of troop and supply trains will be routed through this city on the way to the Mexican border. Two supply trains passed through here Monday night. One consisted of forty-four cars and the other of fifty-one cars. Only a few box cars were used to transport tents and other equipment and the pontoon bridges were carried in open cars.

Travelers from Philadelphia and Washington bring the information that for the last week the side tracks on the Eastern railroads have been filled with cars loaded with army equipment. This has given rise to the suggestion that the war department has been expecting trouble with Mexico for several weeks and had ordered the equipment loaded ready for immediate shipment in case it was necessary to transport them to the border states. It is said that the trains that have already passed through this city consisted of cars picked up from the sidings.

The Baltimore & Ohio road will probably handle a large number of the trains for the border. The company has a direct line to the Eastern seaboard and the transfer of the cars can be easily made at St. Louis. Time is an important factor in the movement of troop and supply trains and for this reason the most direct lines are usually used. Some of the trains may be routed over the Pennsylvania Lines which also have direct connection with the border.

The two trains sent through this city Monday night came from Washington. The Baltimore & Ohio also had splendid connections with the Washington, June 20.—Mexican Ambassador Arredondo this afternoon cancelled his engagement to see Secretary Lansing at 2:30. No reason for his action was given by the state department.

TO RESTOCK WHITE RIVER

Association Notified That Another Shipment Will be Made From Washington in August.

J. J. Peter, president of the Jackson County Fish and Game Club, and Charles L. Kessler, secretary, have received word that the Indiana Fish and Game Department will send a shipment of black bass minnows to this city tomorrow. The bass will arrive on the south bound interurban car due here at 10 o'clock and will be taken to Rockford in an automobile. Nothing was stated concerning the size of the shipment but it is supposed to be large as the local men were informed that a representative of the state department would accompany it here and see that the bass were properly placed in White River.

This is the first direct result obtained by the recently organized county fish and game club. One of the first moves made by the officers was to petition the state fish and game department and the department of fisheries at Washington, D. C. for black minnows to restock the local streams. The state department first answered and said that the shipment would be made as soon as possible.

The local association has also received notice that the department of fisheries will send a shipment of

AMERICA WILL NOT RECEDE

Mexican Administration Scored for Failure to Co-operate with This Government.

By United Press.
Washington, June 20.—The American government today threatened General Carranza with the "gravest consequences" if he attacks American troops now in Mexico.

This threat was contained in a long note replying to his withdrawal demand. The note positively declines to take the American forces out of Mexico. It exonerated Carranza for his failure to co-operate and resented his brusqueness and his intimation of bad faith.

"The de facto government is pleased to ignore this obligation (to protect American rights and chase bandits)," said the note, "and to believe that in case of a refusal to retire these troops there is no further recourse than to defend its territory by an appeal to arms for the government of the United States would surely be lacking in sincerity and

FUNSTON HAS ASKED FOR MILITIAMEN

Believed That General in Command of Mexican Situation Wired for 65,000 Men.

REQUEST TO WAR DEPARTMENT

New York and Illinois Regiments May be First Guardsmen to be Sent to War Zone.

By United Press.
San Antonio, Tex., June 20.—General Funston wired the war department this afternoon for a number of state militia regiments to report to the border at once. He declined to state the exact number requested but it was believed to be 65,000.

The request was in response to a war department message asking Funston how many troops he desired at once.

The troops will be distributed from the eastern Texas gulf ports to California a brigade here and there. No indications were given as to what militia will be called first, but it was believed that the New York and Illinois regiments would receive the initial orders.

The quartermaster's department at Ft. Sam Houston was authorized today to buy 50,000 horses and mules for the national guards to furnish mounts for cavalry and draft animals for the artillery.

Interest in the border situations today centered on Del Rio directly west of here on the Rio Grande where it is reported that 1,500 Mexicans and Yaqui Indians are approaching the city from the south. Reports of the advance were brought to Del Rio by Mexicans and transmitted to General Funston by Col. Sibley commanding at that place.

General Greene commanding the Eagle Pass patrol district sent a battalion of the third infantry on motor trucks to Del Rio immediately. Sibley's command is of fair strength and with the reinforcements he should be able to defend the city against the Mexicans and Yaquis in case they attack, according to Funston.

AMERICA TODAY CLAD IN HABILIMENTS OF WAR

Within a Week Everyone of 100,000 Guardsmen Will be in Concentration Camps.

TEST FOR THE RAILROADS

By United Press.
New York, June 20.—America donned the habiliments of war today. Almost every city in the nation saw Khaki clad men answering the call for general mobilization for the militia. Statistics gathered by the United Press showed the national guards of all the states called out by President Wilson have answered the call to colors with instantaneous unanimity while recruiting is booming. Within the week every one of the 100,000 requisitioned guardsmen will be in concentration camps drilling and hardening for actual service wherever needed. In many cases this concentration called for superhuman efforts by engineers to construct sanitary water supplies to go with the disposal of sewerage. That the mobilization will be a test of railroads and food supply stations as well as the guard itself was becoming more and more apparent today. Nearly every city in the country today saw its "boys" off or saw them making ready for the grim business of war. No such scenes have been witnessed since the Spanish-American war of 1898.

Wholesale Flight of Mexicans to United States Distresses De Facto Government—Situation in Chihuahua City Is Reported Quiet.

El Paso, Tex., June 20.—Three thousand Carranzista soldiers are scattered in small camps twelve miles south from Juarez along the Mexican Central railway and large bodies of troops are stationed along the entire route from Chihuahua City to Juarez, according to a refugee from Chihuahua City.

The large bodies of troops that are supposed to be arriving daily in Juarez are camping a few miles south of the city. No evidence of heavy artillery was noticed, the refugee said. Very little artillery is now located in Juarez and it is far outnumbered by the twelve guns comprising the three artillery commands in El Paso.

El Paso troops were reinforced by the return here from the Pershing base at Columbus, N. M., of a battalion of the Twentieth infantry. Militia will be sent here shortly, according to General Bell.

The call to arms in Juarez for drill "for possible active service against the aggressions of the forces of the United States" has brought out less than one hundred Mexicans.

It is notable that more men remain in the crowds on the streets, cheering the "minute" men than have joined the ranks of the embryo soldiers. Jesus Valdez, a civil employee of the Carranza government in Juarez, is drilling the men with the approval of General Francisco Gonzales, the Juarez military commander.

As an evidence of the tension the present situation is causing along the border, General Jacinto Trevino, military commander of the state of Chihuahua, issued orders against the wholesale flight of Mexicans to the United States. The order forbids Mexicans permission to quit the country with their families. Many Mexican families appear to think it would be safer in the United States than in Mexico in the event of a war between the two countries.

One of the refugees asserted that there is a strong anti-American feeling being engendered in Chihuahua City by the young boys of the army who are making speeches against the Americans, urging the civilians to join the army to "repel her invaders." While this feeling is growing in Chihuahua City, the refugee declared, the situation there is quiet and there had been no further demonstrations since the American consulate and foreign club had been stoned. The older and more responsible residents of the city, he said, are entirely friendly toward the Americans and are anxious for them to return.

U. S. NOTE GOES FORWARD

As Reply to Carranza's Demands For Withdrawal of American Troops Is Prepared Troops Are Mobilizing Ready For Any Eventuality.

San Antonio, Tex., June 20.—Information reaching General Funston indicated that the citizens of Del Rio were greatly alarmed over a report that 1,500 Yaqui Indians and de facto soldiers were marching on that city.

Washington, June 20.—Following are the outstanding developments of the day in the Mexican situation:

Secretary of War Baker sent to Chairman Hay of the house military affairs committee the text of a resolution authorizing the president to draft the national guard for "service on foreign soil." Hay asked unanimous consent in the house for immediate consideration of the resolution.

The governors of thirty-nine states acknowledge receipt of the president's order, calling out the national guard. Among the states yet to be heard from is New Jersey. President Wilson's home state.

Secretary Lansing announced that the reply to Carranza's note demanding withdrawal of the American forces from Mexico will be sent today. It will be delivered in person to Minister Arrendondo and will refuse to comply with the demand of Carranza.

The Mexican government presented to the state department, through Arrendondo, the Mexican version of the clash at Mazatlan between American bluejackets and Mexican forces, in which one American sailor and a number of Mexicans were wounded.

Officials of the American government are awaiting with considerable concern the effect on the Mexican government of President Wilson's action in calling out substantially the entire national guard of the country for service on the Mexican border.

Despite the fact that the text of the official call makes it plain that its purpose is merely to provide for the defense of American territory, it is regarded as possible that Carranza might seize upon it as a pretext for a declaration of war.

That this is regarded as entirely possible is conceded by officials in the light of their growing conviction that Carranza's entire course of action in recent weeks has been framed with the idea of forcing a war with the United States as the last expedient remaining to him as a means of uniting the factions in Mexico behind him.

Fear For Americans in Mexico.

Apprehension continues to exist concerning the safety of the 5,000 Americans still in Mexico, and particularly the 1,000 in Mexico City. Admitting that popular excitement in Mexico was steadily increasing, officials of the state department declared that no steps were being taken to safeguard the Americans in Mexico City beyond renewed warnings to them to leave the country. It is explained that, despite the possibility of attacks on these Americans in the capital, it will be futile to expect an American force to get to Mexico City in less than two months' time, or that a force of less than 100,000 men could reach the city in that time. Then, it was argued, it would be too late.

Steps are being taken as rapidly as possible to send army and navy transports to east and west coast points for the purpose of taking off any American refugees who might be at these points. Special provision is being made for the safety of the Americans and other foreigners at Tampico and for the protection of the oil properties there. Approximately 2,000 Americans are at Tampico and the British government has been particularly concerned for the safety of the British oil wells, from which Great Britain's navy is now getting the bulk of fuel oil being used by the English navy.

It was explained that if it would become necessary eventually to blockade the Mexican ports in order to prevent arms and ammunition from reaching the Mexicans, exceptions could be made in the case of oil shipments leaving Tampico.

The state department had no confirmation concerning the manifestos reported to have been issued to Mexican populace by General Trevino and Gonzales, calling on them to enlist for the defense of Mexico against the United States.

Contrary to the view held, more or less generally in state and war department circles, that it is only a question of time before the United States is fighting the whole of Mexico, in quarters close to the administration, the hope is expressed that the president's action in calling out the national guard may serve to call Carranza's bluff.

It is said in these quarters that the vital factor in the situation is the attitude of Carranza and the extent to which it may be influenced by a realization that the United States is prepared to intervene should he force such action. The belief is expressed that the Mexican executive will back down long before anything like general hostilities occur.

The president's close friends appear to be relying on information which they have received that the Mexican population as a whole is more apathetic than has been represented and that the anti-American feeling has been largely the work of professional agitators.

In view of this attitude assumed by close friends of the president, it is said, that from now on the program will depend from day to day on developments in Mexico. For that reason it is regarded as unlikely that any of the national guard, or at least any considerable number of the state troops will be sent to the border unless the situation grows more serious than it now is.

The war department received from General Funston a report to the effect that conditions generally along the border seemed much quieter as a result of the president's action in calling out the national guard.

No estimate has yet been submitted to Secretary of War Baker of the probable cost of mobilizing the national guard and placing them in the federal service with pay. As soon as such an estimate is available, however, congress will be asked to pass an emergency appropriation bill to cover the expense. It is known that millions of dollars will be required.

INDIANA UNITS MOBILIZED

General Mobilization at Fort Harrison by Last of Week.

Indianapolis, June 20.—The order for a general mobilization of the Indiana national guard at Fort Harrison will go out from the office of Governor Ralston probably on Friday or Saturday of this week. That was the information given out by the governor and Adjutant-General Frank Bridges, following several conferences between the two officials and following a long-distance telephone communication between Bridges and a representative of the central department, United States army at Chicago.

In the meantime each unit of the guard is being assembled at its home station, ready to respond to the order for the general mobilization at Fort Harrison.

The time for calling for the general mobilization will be dependent largely on the rapidity with which the various companies are recruited. The recruiting is reported to be going on at a lively rate.

RUSS FORGING

Advance Against Austrians Is Steady.

NOW THREATEN STORZYNETZ

Unofficial Dispatches Declare That the Austrian Army That Defended Southern Bukovina Has Been Cut Off From Main Army.

London, June 20.—Further progress and additional large captures of Austro-Hungarian and German prisoners by the armies of General Brusiloff in Volhynia, Galicia and the Bukovina, are reported in the Russian war office statement.

Both the amount of ground gained and the number of prisoners taken are slight when compared with the successes of the first ten days of the new Russian offensive, but the claims are sufficient to indicate that the advance keeps up steadily, notwithstanding the strong reinforcements the Germans have been able by this time to bring up to aid their hard-pressed southern lines.

After the fall of Czernowitz, capital of the Bukovina, officially announced by Petrograd, and admitted by Vienna, General Brusiloff's forces swept across the Pruth and are now "energetically advancing toward the river Sereth." This river comes nearest to Czernowitz at the fortified city of Storzynetz, defended by a strategic bridgehead similar, though less powerful, to that of Czernowitz. At this bridgehead, about thirteen miles to the southwest of Czernowitz, the Austro-Hungarians are expected to make their last stand to escape the only alternative of fleeing into the Carpathian mountains.

The army which defended the southern Bukovina is in sore straits. Some unofficial dispatches declare it to be already cut off from the northern forces and retreating toward Kolomei, Kutu, to the west, and part of it southward to Dornavatra. The army is commanded by General Pflanzer.

The Havas correspondent at Salonica reports that the Bulgarian troops in the region of Florina and Monastir are beginning an advance. Monastir is in southwestern Serbia, near the Greek frontier, and Florina is across the border about seventy-five miles west of Salonica. There has been no important fighting along that front since the conclusion of the Servian campaign.

Rome reports that the Austrians have been making vigorous attacks in between Magna Boschi and Boscon, in the Trentino, but insists that all these offensive movements have been repulsed.

Heavy fighting is reported in the Verdun region, and the statement from Berlin indicated that the French have been making strong counter attacks in an effort to regain lost ground. All these attacks have been repulsed, according to Berlin. The Paris statement says that the Germans have been making unsuccessful attacks in the Dead Man Hill region.

Both Wilson and Marshall Began Careers as Lawyers

President, However, Took Up College Work—Renomination Comes During Administration Marked by European War. Vice President First Became Prominent as Governor of Indiana, Only Other Office Held—Wife Aided in Election.

HISTORY will make note that the Democratic convention at St. Louis was a ratification gathering. It assembled to nominate for president and vice president respectively Woodrow Wilson and Thomas R. Marshall.

When the story of Woodrow Wilson shall come to be written historians no doubt will divide his life into four periods—forty-six years of study of government and preparation; eight years of experience as executive head of a university, fitting him for action; three years in the practical field of politics in winning the governorship of New Jersey and conducting the affairs of that office, and finally the administration of the presidency of the United States. The key to Woodrow Wilson's career is found in that major division of forty-six years devoted to preparation. To understand him he must be thought of as a man who has gone through such a training and is an indefatigable worker.

Born in Virginia.

Woodrow Wilson was born in Staunton, Va., on Dec. 28, 1856, the son of Joseph R. and Jessie Woodrow Wilson. The stock is Scotch-Irish. The early years of his life were spent in South Carolina and Georgia, where his father, a minister of the Presbyterian church, had charges, and at seventeen he was sent to Davidson college. Two years later he went north to enter Princeton and was graduated in 1879. At college he was a prime favorite with his fellows—not overstudious, as one may judge from his rank of forty-first in a class of 122.

From Princeton Wilson went to the University of Virginia. There he studied law for one year. From Virginia Wilson went to Atlanta and there sought to eke out a living by selling his knowledge of law to clients. The clients did not come—not altogether to Wilson's dismay, for he was not interested in the practice of law, but in its principles—and a year later found him at Johns Hopkins university. In 1885 he published his book, "Congressional Government—A Study of Government by Committee." This is now largely used as a textbook in colleges and graduate schools in this country.

His Two Countries.

In the summer of 1885, just before taking up his work as professor at Bryn Mawr, he married Miss Ellen Louise Axson of Savannah. Mrs. Wilson died at the White House Aug. 6, 1914, and the president married Dec. 18, 1915, Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt of Washington. The president has three daughters—Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre and Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo, wife of the secretary of the treasury.

Wilson entered the faculty of Princeton university in 1890 and was made professor of political economy and jurisprudence, later of jurisprudence and politics. In 1902, upon the death of the Rev. Dr. Francis L. Patton, he was elected president of Princeton university. He was the first man not a clergyman to hold that office.

For eight years he served that university as its head and was constantly voted the most popular man on the faculty, while his courses were voted both difficult and popular.

From the presidency of Princeton he became the nominee for governor of New Jersey, being elected Nov. 8, 1910. The state had consistently been carried by the Republicans for sixteen consecutive years before that election. He advocated important reform legislation, and it was embodied in the state laws. Wilson carried to the people his fight on Senator James Smith, Jr., the Democratic boss who aspired to the senatorship, and defeated him.

Addressed Congress Personally.

In 1912, at the Democratic convention in Baltimore, on the forty-sixth ballot he was nominated by a vote of 900 to Champ Clark's 84. Then followed the election of Wilson, with a total vote of 6,291,774, over Theodore Roosevelt, with 4,136,247, and William H. Taft, with 3,481,119. He was the first Democratic president to hold office since Grover Cleveland left the White House in 1897.

On March 4, 1913, Mr. Wilson was inaugurated, and thirty-five days after he took the oath as president of the United States he appeared in the house of representatives and addressed congress, assembled in joint session, thus reverting to the practice of early presidents.

Administration Full of Worries.

Since reaching the White House President Wilson has had no end of trouble. The Mexican affair has caused him more than one worried day. The Vera Cruz and Huerta incidents and finally the bandit raid which resulted in the sending of our troops over the border have all been part of the president's worries.

It is the terrible conflict abroad, however, which began in his second year in office, that has caused, and still causes, more worries to Mr. Wilson than any president since Lincoln's time has had to contend with.

Uses a Typewriter.

Wilson is the only president of the United States and the only actual head of any nation or government in the world who uses a typewriter and shorthand notes together. He is the only head of a government to use a typewriter at all. His usual method in preparing a speech, diplomatic paper or anything of that sort is to write it all out in shorthand first; then, sitting down to his typewriter with the shorthand notes before him, he transcribes the notes into as good English as any man can write.

Like his predecessor as Democratic president, he really has more than two names. The late Grover Cleveland's full name was Stephen Grover Cleveland. Mr. Wilson's full name is Thomas Woodrow Wilson. Each dropped the first name early in life.

Likes Golf and Walking.

The president's love of plain fun and good stories is in itself a refutation of the idea that he is a reserved, austere scholar with aristocratic leanings. Whether it was aboard a train, in the smoking room of the steamer bound for Bermuda, in the quiet of his study at Princeton or at the White House, Mr. Wilson has revealed himself as a very approachable individual.

He stands five feet ten inches in his socks, and his weight of 177 pounds is well placed. "He can run half a mile at a good clip without losing his wind," an admirer of his said recently. Golf and walking are his favorite exercises.

The Vice President.

Thomas Riley Marshall, renominated for the vice presidency by the Democrats, won his success in politics by reforms. It might be added, too, that he won by virtue of a good stock of native ability and resourcefulness.

Mr. Marshall was born in Manchester, Ind., March 14, 1854, and is two and a half years older than Woodrow Wilson. He had a common school education before entering Vabash college, from which he was graduated in 1873. On his twenty-first birthday he was admitted to the practice of law in Columbia City, Ind., and remained there until his election as governor of the state.

At the bar he was known chiefly for his wit and resourcefulness as a trial lawyer and his habit of careful and thorough preparation. One of his brother lawyers remarked about him that "to spring a surprise on Tom Marshall you needn't get up early in the morning. You have to sit up all night."

Marshall Likes New Things.

In his campaign for the governorship of Indiana, the only office held by Mr. Marshall besides the vice presidency, he introduced a new style of stumping the state, a leisurely, homely way. He and Mrs. Marshall traveled about the state without much plan or purpose, mapped out, and wherever they went he told the people what he thought about politics and state affairs. He held no conferences with local leaders, but engaged his amiable way. Free tical politicians laughed at him. There was not even any handshaking or cigar giving in his plan. But on election day "Little Tom" Marshall was elected.

In his first term of office Marshall was opposed by the state senate, which was Republican. In the election of 1910, however, the people gave him a legislature wholly Democratic. Then Marshall had on his hands the fight against Thomas Taggart, now senator. He won, electing Kern to the senate over Taggart's opposition.

At the Baltimore convention in 1912 he had little opposition for the vice presidential nomination.

Among the laws which he favored and signed in the second term of his administration as governor were those providing for a corrupt practices and publicity of campaign contributions act, for employers' liability on liberal lines, for the strengthening of the railroad commission's powers and for greater safety of industrial workers.

WILSON HEARD CHEERING.

At Telephone at White House After Judge Wescott Spoke at St. Louis.

During the demonstration for President Wilson which followed Judge Wescott's nominating speech in St. Louis a telephone wire connecting the convention hall with the White House switchboard was opened.

The president, Mrs. Wilson, Secretary Tamm and others of the White House party listened in. The applause and cheering could be heard very plainly.

Recruits "62,370 Pounds" Stronger.

After fourteen weeks of military training in the open a company of fifty-six recruits of the United States marine corps learning the ropes at the recruit depot at Port Royal, S. C., increased its pulling power from 202,198 pounds to 264,568 pounds, an increase of 62,370 pounds. Tests were made with a dynamometer, which automatically registers the exact number of pounds pulled by each muscle group

Make a New Customer

THERE is one thought I would like very much to impress upon advertisers and that is this:

The true function of advertising is never to take trade from one merchant to another, that is, providing merchants are equally wide-awake and progressive.

Primarily, advertising is to develop more business rather than to interfere with what is now being done, and this is something every Indiana merchant should have in mind when he is writing copy. Don't try to get a customer away from your competitor, but try to make a new customer.—Business Chats

WHAT UNCLE SAM'S EXPERTS ARE DOING

UNCLE SAM'S INCOME.

Treasury department officials estimate that the government's receipts during the current fiscal year ending June 30 will be from $90,000,000 to $100,000,000 more than estimated when congress convened.

Revised estimates showed the increases approximately as follows: Income tax, from $85,000,000 to $120,000,000, an increase of $35,000,000 over the original estimate; ordinary internal revenue receipts from $272,000,000 to $305,000,000, an increase of $33,000,000; customs receipts, from $190,000,000 to $215,000,000, an increase of $25,000,000. With these three principal sources of revenue showing an indicated increase of $93,000,000 over the original estimates, officials believe minor sources will help bring the total income close to $100,000,000.

Customs receipts show that the government already has collected duties aggregating $185,446,442, only $1,000 less than the sum collected this time last year and within $5,500,000 of the sum originally estimated for the entire year.

Customs receipts have been steadily increasing since the beginning of the year.

have passed $20,000,000 a month. Continuance of present conditions for another year, officials believe, would result in the customs receipts nearly reaching the level attained before the war.

DR. PRATT'S ADDRESS.

Dr. Edward Ewing Pratt, chief of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, in a recent lecture discussed the problems that the American lumber industry faces. Here are some of his statements:

"Great instability has prevailed in the lumber industry—an instability that has made losses and not profits the order of the day.

"You are seeking a purely legal remedy for a problem which is purely economic.

"The lumber industry must find more efficient marketing methods and larger markets for its products.

"Foreign trade is one of the things vitally necessary if the lumber industry is to be put on its feet.

"Probably most lumber manufacturers have never exported a stick of lumber.

"Our lumber has sold in Europe, but it has sold itself.

"Foreign trade is conducted through exactly the same fundamental business principles as domestic trade.

"The yellow pine industry should take up the matter of measurements in the South American trade.

"Why not have in every important center of South America an agency of this association which would keep its eyes open for opportunities?

"Why not have a score of offices to demonstrate to South America how to use wood to the best advantage?"

NEW COMMERCIAL ATTACHE FOR LONDON.

Pierce C. Williams of New York has been appointed American commercial attache at London to succeed Albertus H. Baldwin, who has held the post since the commercial attache service was inaugurated, nearly two years ago.

by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce.

At the time of his appointment by Secretary Redfield, Mr. Williams was connected with W. R. Grace & Co. of New York, having charge of their foreign trade in ores. He had previously been employed with the Crucible Steel Company of America, for which concern he traveled extensively in South America and Europe. Further experience in foreign trade promotion was acquired as an official of the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce.

Mr. Williams is only thirty years of age and is the youngest member of the commercial attache staff. He leaves at once for his new post.

EXPORT OF CALIFORNIA TOBACCO.

A firm in San Francisco reports to Commercial Agent E. G. Babbitt, in charge of the district office of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce in that city, that it has made a shipment, equivalent to a carload, of "Turkish" tobacco grown in California to Australia. It is stated that if this shipment is satisfactory to the consignees it will probably lead to further Australian purchases of this product in California.

It is understood that this is the first export of tobacco grown in California.

USE MORE PETROLEUM.

The United States geological survey reports that there was a marked increase in the use of petroleum as a locomotive fuel by the railroads of the United States in 1915. The quantity of oil fuel so consumed last year was 36,648,466 barrels, an increase of 5,555,200 barrels, or 18 per cent over the similar consumption in 1914.

routine and Capt. Abel desired to have his company in as good condition as possible. Thirty-five of the original company have already reported for duty. Some of the absentees are out of the state and several days will be required before they can report. A number were expected to reach Seymour this afternoon and tomorrow.

The company officers are anxious immediately to recruit the company up to the minimum peace strength, at least. Capt. Abel said that in case they were unable to do this before the general mobilization orders came he felt certain that his company would be ordered to proceed to Indianapolis.

The business men and citizens are planning to give the boys a little farewell when they leave for Ft. Benjamin Harrison. A movement is under way to start a subscription and employ the Seymour Concert Band to escort the company to the train. It is pointed out that each man will need a little ready cash enroute to the border and that if the subscription should total more than the expense of the band the balance would be distributed among the men. Capt. Abel said that under all probability some of the members would leave without much ready cash and that they would need a few things along the way that the government does not provide. The matter of securing the band for the soldiers' farewell will be taken up as soon as the men hear just when they will depart from this city.

The men begin receiving compensation as soon as they report following the order from the adjutant-general, Frank L. Bridges. The privates received fifty cents a day and rations. Seventy-five cents a day is allowed for food. Some of the recruits live out of the city and the company officers are looking after their meals and lodging. The men who live in this city are entitled to the same amount for rations but by agreement this money is turned over to the company treasurer. Corporals receive seventy-five cents a day; Sergeants are paid $1 a day. The first sergeant gets $1.10 a day and the second lieutenant draws $4.72. The first lieutenant is paid $5.78 a day and the captain draws $6.67 per day. The scale of pay is automatically increased should the men be required to cross into a foreign country.

"What we want is men," said Lieutenant Baldwin. "We would like to have at least forty or fifty more members in our company. That number would bring the company up to almost war strength and would make a splendid showing."

Second Lieutenant Baldwin will likely be promoted to the first lieutenant. The first place has been vacant for some time and Lieut. Baldwin has intended to take the examination for the place but up to this time had neglected to do so. If he becomes first lieutenant the second lieutenant may be appointed before the company entrains for Ft. Benjamin Harrison.

SHEPHERD WRITES ABOUT
GERMAN FOOD SITUATION

American Newspaper Man Told That Babies are Eating Carrots and Apples.

(By William G. Shepherd, United Press Staff Correspondent).

Rotterdam, Holland, May 25.—(By Mail).—Babies seven months to a year old are eating carrots, apples and spinach in Germany. Other folks beside babies are having food troubles. These food stories we'll tell about them all. If you watch the consulates here and keep your eyes on the incoming trains you can meet, every day, a scant few persons who have just come from Germany and who will gladly tell you what experiences they have had in their kitchens, dining rooms and stomachs since the food stringency in Germany became noticeable. These travelers feel themselves heroes, as, indeed, you come to regard them, in a manner of speaking, when you see them abandon themselves to a full, man's sized meal here.

Travelers to Berlin, especially the American writing kind, live at the best hotels. They return with stories of plentiful and excellent food. Berlin is the wartime show place of Germany and the hotels where writers go are the wartime show places of Berlin. What the American writers have said of the plentifulness and the excellence of the food, is not necessarily true.

Here in Rotterdam you get the truth, straight from the dining rooms and kitchens of civilians in every part of Germany. It indicates that life in Germany in uncomfortable, highly so, for a civilian who is keeping house.

Here's a Swedish mechanic from Germany, running around Rotterdam filling his arms with packages of bacon, bottles of olive oil and rice. Perhaps the Hollanders will refuse him permission to take these things across the border but, "I'm going to make a try of it," he says.

Here's a pretty American girl dining alone in a Rotterdam restaurant. She's studying music in Berlin. "I've just run over to Holland to spend a week eating," she says.

Here's a Spanish woman with three little children. "I brought the baby down to get him some milk. He is tired of carrots, spinach and apples. No wonder; he is only seven months."

And here are Germans rich, elderly, retired Germans, who haunt the doorways of the hotel restaurants, waiting for the American plan dinner bell to ring and who seem to be always eating, even at the hated English tea hour. They are here a week. Then they go back to Germany.

Germany, civilian Germany is hungry. Not hungry for victuals, because victuals are anything a human being can eat and digest, but for decent food like meat and wheat and milk and animal and vegetable fats. (How and why tiny, toothless German babies eat apples, carrots, spinach and oatmeal, instead of gurgling milk, will be the subject of Shepherd's next German food story.)

HUGHES NOT DECIDED ON CAMPAIGN CHIEF

Wilcox and Loeb Eliminated at Conference of Nominees With Leaders—No Announcement Made.

New York, June 20.—Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for the presidency, after spending a busy day here at his headquarters with Republican leaders discussing the reorganization of the national committee and the selection of a chairman, left yesterday for Providence, R. I., to attend his class reunion at Brown University. He expects to return Thursday.

It was expected that the new chairman would be named at a forty-five minute conference today between Mr. Hughes and the subcommittee of the national committee appointed for that purpose. At the conclusion of the conference, however, Mr. Hughes personally announced that nothing had been accomplished in that regard. He said the meeting was only a "preliminary" one.

It was unofficially announced that William R. Wilcox, former public service commissioner and intimate friend of Mr. Hughes, and William Loeb, Col. Roosevelt's former secretary, had been virtually eliminated from consideration for the chairmanship.

Frank H. Hitchcock, who has been mentioned in connection with the chairmanship, was in conference with the candidate for fifteen minutes. Other callers were Charles D. Hilles, the retiring chairman; former State Senator Frederick M. Davenport, Fredrick C. Tanner, and State Senator George F. Thompson, chairman of the joint legislative investigating committee; former Attorney General George W. Wickersham and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts.

Mr. Hughes declined to discuss the Mexican situation. He talked freely, however, concerning his plans for the summer. Saturday, he said, he expects to leave for Bridgehampton, L. I., to spend at least a month.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Publicity Thoroughly Discussed at Annual State Sunday School Convention.

By United Press.

Muncie, Ind., June 20.—The value of newspaper publicity was one of the themes discussed at the annual state Sunday School convention which opened here to-day. The Indiana association established a division of publicity two years ago and its chief work has been to impress upon the school workers throughout the state the importance of advertising and the judicious use of printers' ink. The publicity division will make a report at one of the sessions of the convention.

Heading the list of prominent speakers who will appear during the three-day convention is Dr. R. M. Von Klein Smid, a president of the University of Arizona, formerly of DePauw University, and Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, of Washington, D. C., superintendent of the International Reform Bureau.

Other prominent speakers will be Rev. W. E. Chalmers, of New York, secretary of the department of education of the Baptist churches of America, and James A. Whitmore, of New York, field secretary of the commission on church federation.

An American in Europe.

"Tis fine to see the Old World, and travel up and down
Among the famous palaces and cities of renown,
To admire the crumby castles and the statues of the kings—
But now I think I've had enough of antiquated things.

So it's home again, and home again,
America for me!

My heart is turning home again, and there I long to be.

In the land of youth and freedom beyond the ocean bars,

Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

Oh, London is a man's town, there's power in the air;

And Paris is a woman's town, with flowers in her hair;

And it's sweet to dream of Venice, and it's great to study Rome;

But when it comes to living, there's no place like home.

I like the German firwoods, in green battalions drilled;

I like the gardens of Versailles with flashing fountains filled;

But, oh, to take your hand, my dear, and ramble for a day

In the friendly western woodland where Nature has her way.

I know that Europe's wonderful, yet something seems to lack;

The Past is too much with her, and the people looking back.

But the glory of the Present is to make the Future free—

We love our land for what she is and for what she is to be.

Oh, it's home again, and home again, America for me!

I want a ship that's westward bound to plough the rolling sea,

To the blessed Land of Room Enough beyond the ocean bars,

Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

The World Scorch.

"Sir Ian Hamilton, the chief of the Dardanelles expedition, had just got back to London to have his work investigated, when I met him at a luncheon at Claridge's," said a Chicago millionaire.

"The talk turned, naturally, on the slowness with which the Dardanelles operations had dragged on, and Sir Ian said with some asperity that to try to search to Constantinople would be as absurd as the millionaire's scorch round the globe.

"He said a millionaire speeding along in his 90 horse-power torpedo, said to his chauffeur:

"Where are we now?"

"London, sir," the chauffeur answered, slowing up.

"Ah, cut out the details," said the millionaire. "I mean what continent?"—London Times.

And speaking of opera on the diamond, Hugh Jennings' old war cry, "Eeh Yah," sounded about as musical to us as much of the noise that passes for music on the stage.

A good speculation

Wealth is conserved—not made—through absolutely safe investments. The making of wealth, the investing for profit, involves a certain element of speculation, either in manufacturing, merchandising, or finance. Success in each instance depends upon the judgement exercised in selecting the security. At this time we believe there are good speculative possibilities in the stock of

The Columbia Gas
and Electric Co.

This stock will sooner or later reflect, by its market value, the improved condition of this company. The public does not realize that there is real value back of Columbia stock and that it is intrinsically worth the trading price, which represents a total market value of $8,000,000 for the entire stock issue. The net earnings for 1916 are estimated to be approximately $1,000,000, or 12% on present market value. This stock as a speculation to be bought now and held will no doubt show good results.

Another low-priced stock is Corcoran-Victor Common selling at 21—earning about 14% on par value.

Recitation of scores of instances of banditry.

Charges that the Carranza regime had been indifferent to atrocities and even encouraged and aided some of the leaders of these.

His remarks were valuable in that he told of certain things that were required by law of the telephone companies in Indiana.

Following the adjournment of the morning session the visitors went to the K. of P. Hall where an elegant dinner was served by the ladies of the Eastern Star. Many compliments were passed upon the well prepared menu. During the luncheon two vaudeville companies under the direction of the Co-operative Theatrical Booking Association gave a cabaret program. This feature was much enjoyed by the banqueters. The Seymour Telephone Company invited a number of business men to the luncheon to meet the telephone owners.

At 1 o'clock the visitors were taken for a short motor trip through the city and the immediate vicinity of Seymour. They were the guests of local motorists who offered their cars for the trip. The route included many of the streets in this city, Cortland, Reddington and other places.

The trip was "run on schedule" as this afternoon's session at 2 o'clock was expected to be an important one. Judge McClure spoke again this afternoon. Other speakers scheduled for the day were: M. F. Hosea, traffic superintendent of the Indianapolis Telephone Company, "Proper Construction and Circuit Arrangement;" J. W. Coffey, of Louisville, "Accounting, Proper Methods of Filing State and Federal Reports;" W. M. Brown, of Louisville, was to discuss his important feature of the telephone business.

The association was organized several months ago at French Lick and its purpose is to give the owners of telephone plants in this part of the state an opportunity to meet from time to time to discuss matters which are of common interest to them. The attendance today was not as large as anticipated, but many of the members were unable to come on account of damage to telephone property on account of the recent storms and heavy rains. L. C. Griffiths, of this city, is secretary of the Association and was instrumental in organizing it.

Columbus, O., barracks and with Ft. Hancock, in New Jersey. Large quantities of supplies such as will be needed in case of Mexican intervention are kept at both places and will be transferred to the border.

Up to this time the troop and supply trains have been moved as ordinary trains but in case of any emergency such trains will take precedent over all others on the road. The Baltimore & Ohio, it is stated, is fully prepared to handle a large number of such trains in the shortest time and if occasion arises special arrangements will be made to dispatch the trains without any delay.

The transportation of the large quantities of supplies indicates that the war staff is preparing to meet any emergency that may arise in connection with the Mexican situation. The pontoon bridges, of course, will be used in crossing the Rio Grande or other rivers if such crossing is necessary. On an expedition of this character the staff never knows just what condition will be presented and makes its plans accordingly.

HOUSE MOVING CONTRACTOR STUNNED BY HEAVY CURRENT

Thomas Rhude Caught Hold of a "Live" Wire and was Unable to Free Himself.

Thomas Rhude, a local contractor, was seriously injured this morning when he came in contact with an electric wire carrying a high voltage of electricity. Mr. Rhude was engaged in moving a residence on South Walnut street and climbed to the roof and attempted to remove the wire which interfered. He thought the current was off. When he took hold of the wire the other workmen saw that it was charged and that it was not possible for him to let loose. They went to the roof and in breaking the hold of the unconscious man permitted his body to become overbalanced and Rhude fell to the ground. He would probably have been fatally injured had not T. A. Prather, who was also working on the house, tried to break the force of the fall. In his attempt to catch the body Mr. Prather threw the man so that he fell on his knee instead of his head. The contractor suffered a broken knee and severe burns about the wrists and arms.

PESSIMISM DOMINATING OVER MEXICAN MATTERS

Fear that American Mobilization May Not Tame Mexico's Martial Spirit.

By United Press.
Washington, June 20.—Pessimism over Mexican matters predominated in official quarters today. Even those who had hoped American mobilization would tame Mexico's martial spirit were less confident that this would be the case.

A stronger feeling was evident today that the militia of the United States may see Mexican service.

One story was that the administration expects to bottle up Mexican ports at once. Officials admitted this could be done though they did not admit today that this is the anticipated course.

The Pacific fleet is enroute to the west coast of Mexico; other ships dot both coasts. All are ready for action.

Fearing that it would be construed as an act of war, the war department has decided to withdraw its request to congress for the passage of a resolution authorizing the president to use the national guard in Mexico.

The display was of winter shoes, boots and rubbers, with a background of winter landscapes and, in the front, a blinding snow storm, cleverly arranged by using thread and cotton. The window was arranged by J. A. Hoadley.

LOCAL CLUB TO GET SHIPMENT OF BASS

black bass sometime in August. The petition filed by the association has been placed on file, it is stated, and one of the first shipments to be made late this summer will be consigned to this city.

The officers and members of the local association have extensive plans for restocking the local rivers and streams with game fish. Besides fighting minnows from the state and federal departments it is planned to protect the minnows which are hatched in the local waters. It is pointed out by fishermen that each year thousands of small bass and perch are carried to inland bodies of water during the flood seasons and are unable to get back into the main channels after the flood waters have receded. The minnows in such isolated ponds soon die for want of food and it is said that many of them could be saved if the ponds were seined and the small fish taken back to the main channel.

The purpose of the local fish and game club is not only to restock the streams but to protect the fish by seeing that the state laws prohibiting seining and dynamiting are enforced. One stick of dynamite in a large body of water will kill more minnows than can be placed in the river in several years. The club also proposed to give its support to the protection of birds and will aid farmers in enforcing the law.

KITCHENER CALM AS HE SAW DEATH

Survivor Watched War Secretary on Deck After Explosion.

DIDN'T SEE HIM LEAVE SHIP

Seaman Rogerson of the Hampshire, Last Man to Set Eyes on Field Marshal, Tells How Only Rafts Could Be Launched in Rough Sea—Ship Suddenly Went Down Head First. The last man who saw Lord Kitchener alive was Seaman Rogerson, a survivor of the Hampshire, who arrived at his home near London from the Orkneys, and describes in the Daily Mail how the field marshal died.

"Of those who left the ship and have survived," said Rogerson, "I was the one who saw Kitchener last. He went down with the ship. He did not leave her. I saw Captain Savill help his boat crew to clear away his galley. At the same time the captain was calling to Kitchener to come to his boat. Owing to the noise made by the wind and sea Lord Kitchener could not hear him.

Walked Calmly From Captain's Cabin.

"When the explosion occurred Lord Kitchener walked calmly from the captain's cabin and went up a ladder on the quarterdeck. There I saw him walking about quite collectedly and talking to two officers. All three were wearing klaki and had on no overcoats. Lord Kitchener was calmly watching the preparations for abandoning the ship, which were going on in a steady and orderly way.

"The crew just went to their stations, obeyed orders and did their best to get out the boats, but that was impossible. Owing to the rough weather no boats could be lowered. Those that were got out were smashed. No boats left the ship. What the people on shore thought to be boats leaving were rafts.

"The men did get into the boats as they lay in their cradles, thinking as the ship went under them the boats would float. But the ship sank by the head, and when she went under she turned a somersault forward, carrying down with her all boats and persons in them.

Sank With Ship. "I do not think Earl Kitchener got into a boat. When I sprang to a raft he was still on the starboard side of the quarterdeck talking with his officers. From the little time that elapsed between my leaving the ship and her sinking I feel certain that Earl Kitchener was on deck at the time she sank.

"I got away on one of the rafts, and we had a terrible five hours in the water. It was so rough that the seas beat down on us, and many of the men were killed by the buffeting. Many others died from the piercing cold.

"An overpowering desire for sleep came down upon us. To keep this away we thumped each other on the back. The man who went to sleep never woke again. When men died it was just as though they were falling asleep. One man stood upright for five hours on the raft, with dead lying all around him, and one man died in my arms.

"As we neared the shore the situation grew worse. The fury of the sea dashed our raft against the rocks with tremendous force. A number of men were killed in this way. I don't quite know how I got ashore, for all feeling had gone out of me.

"My belief is that the Hampshire struck a mine, which exploded under her forepart. It could not have been a submarine in such weather, and an internal explosion in one of her magazines would have ripped her apart. It was hard luck coming to such an end after going through the battle of Jutland unscathed. We led the Iron Duke into that action, and sank a German light cruiser and two submarines, but did not have a single casualty ourselves, although big shells rained into the water all around us."

PLAN TO RAISE BREAD PRICE.

Bakers May Appropriate $300,000 For Publicity Campaign.

The price of bread is to be increased throughout the country. President Burns of the National Master Bakers' association told the annual convention of the bakers at Omaha. President Burns advocated the raising of a fund of $300,000 for educating the public to the necessity of increasing bread prices.

In his address to the convention President Burns said the prices must be increased because flour and everything used by bakers had increased from 30 to 90 per cent since the last increase in bread prices.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BATTLE WITH FIGHTING FISH.

"Far away in a country called Siam they have Fishes they call the Fighting Fishes," commenced Daddy.

Nick and Nancy thought of course they were going to hear a story about a big battle in the Fish world, but Daddy continued:

"The more they fight, the more beautiful they become. As soon as they begin to fight they turn into the most beautiful of Fishes—for their colors change. They turn from dull grays into bright reds and blues, and all the time they are fighting they are the loveliest looking Fishes you can imagine.

"The Fairies had heard about these wonderful Fishes, and they had also heard that in a big aquarium there were a number of the Fighting Fishes who had been brought from Siam because they were so curious.

"You know an aquarium is a great big tank filled with water where Fish from far away and near are brought to live. All kinds of Fishes that are rare—for in the Fish world an aquarium is like a zoo—is in the Animal world.

"Now the Fairies thought that some time very, very early in the morning they would pay a flying visit to the Fighting Fishes before any of the aquarium keepers were up and around.

"They got there when the Fishes were sound asleep, but the Fairies woke them up very gently, flying over the tank and whispering to them:

"Let's play!"

"Of course the Fairies wanted to see the beautiful colors the Fishes would turn as soon as they began to play. So the Fairies seated themselves in the edges of the tank until the Fishes were quite wide awake.

"What will we play?" asked one sleepy Fish.

"Oh, let's run races," said one of the Fairies. They thought in such a way they would certainly see all the wonderful colors.

"So the races began around and around the tank, for the little Fairies became very tiny so they could get in the tank—that had been a special treat from the Fairy Queen—to wave her wand and make them very small for their visit with the Fighting Fishes.

It Was a Wonderful Battle.

"And, sure enough, the Fishes became the most glorious colors of bright red, bright blue and a deep, deep, wonderful pink.

"Then the Fishes, who were quite wide awake and ready for anything by this time, suggested they should have a battle.

"So you do fight?" said one of the Fairies.

"Dear me, yes," said one bright red Fish—who before had been a dull gray color—"we simply love to fight."

"When he said that his fins quivered with delight and the Fairies couldn't help laughing at the pleasant way the little Fish had said 'We love to fight.' And he went on to say, 'Let's have a battle, it will be such fun!'

"It was a wonderful water battle they had. Half of the little Fairies went on one side of the tank with the bright blue Fishes and the others went with the bright red Fishes. Their colors became brighter and brighter as the funny battle went on. And when it was all over and they became pretty well tired out, they changed back to the little dull gray Fishes they had been before the Fairies came to play with them. But how happy the Fairies were that they had had such a splendid time with the 'Fighting Fishes.'"

CHILD IS KILLED BY AUTO

Machine Turns Corner as Child Runs Into Street.

Muncie, Ind., June 20.—Helen McBride, age two, daughter of Frank McBride, chef of the Kirby hotel, darted in front of an automobile to pick up a toy horn she had dropped a moment before, and was almost instantly killed.

Frank Hiatt, age twenty-three, the driver, said the child ran into the street so suddenly as he was rounding a corner that he did not have time to blow the horn. Hiatt is under arrest while the coroner is investigating. The McBride family moved here two weeks ago from Chicago.

24 U. S. WARSHIPS IN MEXICAN WATERS

Bluejackets Clash With Carranzistas.

Washington, June 20.—Coincident with the report that a party of American bluejackets from the United States gunboat Annapolis had exchanged shots with Carranzistas at Mazatlan, it became known that no fewer than twenty-four American warships are en route for, or actually in Mexican waters. The clash at Mazatlan was reported to the navy department by Rear Admiral Winslow.

According to this report, which came from Commander Arthur G. Kavanagh, commanding the Annapolis, the trouble resulted from an attempt to send a launch ashore to parley with the Mexican officials. The bluejackets were not permitted to land and two American officers that did land were made prisoners. They are Ensign O. Kessing of Indiana, and Assistant Paymaster Andrew Mowatt, of Newport, R. I.

What transpired directly subsequent to this is not made clear in the dispatches, but Commander Kavanagh reported that the launch was fired on by Mexicans and the crew returned the fire. The Mexican fire gravely wounded Boatswain Mate I. M. Laughter of Jackson, Tex. The return fire killed or wounded six Mexicans. Secretary Daniels has telegraphed Admiral Winslow to send all further particulars at once if possible.

The version which the Mexican embassy gives out here of the affair is distinctly different from the official navy department advices. According to the Mexican embassy the bluejackets attempted to land and were advised not to come ashore. While discussion was going on an intoxicated Japanese, who was with the Carranzistas, fired at the launch.

TO ERADICATE YELLOW FEVER IN SOUTH AMERICA

General Gorgas Heads Commission Sent by Rockefeller Foundation.

The international health board of the Rockefeller foundation has constituted a yellow fever commission consisting of the following: General William C. Gorgas, U. S. A., chairman; Dr. Henry R. Carter, clinician (of United States public health service); Dr. Juan Gutierrez, clinician and general adviser (head of public health service of Cuba and authority on yellow fever); Dr. C. C. Lyster, clinician; Dr. Eugene R. Whitmore, pathologist; Dr. William D. Wrightson, sanitary engineer; Harry H. Wakefield, secretary.

To undertake this work General Gorgas has obtained leave of absence from the United States army for four months.

The commission sailed recently on the steamer Almirante for a trip to various points in South America where yellow fever is still supposed to exist. Its purpose will be to gather information and report upon the feasibility of a campaign for the complete eradication of the disease wherever it is still to be found.

The commission will go first to Caracas, Venezuela, and then to Colon, Panama. Crossing the isthmus, it will sail down the west coast of South America, stopping at various points, especially Guayaquil, Ecuador.

The commission will sail around the south coast of South America and then stop at various points in Brazil. Particular investigation will be made of conditions in Manaus, Pernambuco and Bahia, in Brazil.

The opening of the canal has wrought radical changes in trade relations. Countries and ports between which there has been little or no exchange are to be brought into close relation.

Pestholes of infection that have been relatively harmless because of their isolation are going to be on or near the world's highway of commerce and travel.

It is recognized by sanitarians that if the infection should once be introduced into the orient, with its dense population of nonimmunes, the ill resulting from it would be incalculable.

The opening of the Panama canal thus calls for a new sanitary map of a large region affected by the canal and for a new sanitary program to meet the changed conditions.

General Gorgas, who was called by the international health board into consultation on this subject, was asked what he regarded as the more urgent of the sanitary needs arising out of the Panama canal and what, if anything, might be undertaken with promise of definite and lasting results. He replied without hesitation, "The control of yellow fever."

Prior to the work of Reed and the army commission in Havana yellow fever was regarded as one of the great plagues. The discovery of Reed made the control of the infection possible. So far as our own country is concerned the fangs of yellow fever have been drawn. Its eradication from Havana removed the chief source of our danger.

In the countries south of us, however, it is still the source of constant anxiety. The coast of Brazil, the Amazon valley, the Caribbean region and the west coast of South America from Peru to Mazatlan, Mexico, are subject to invasion at all seasons.

He had made his home with the last named for several years. He united with the Liberty church about 1857. He was a faithful member and was at the time of his death a deacon of the church. He was a man of a cheerful disposition, which helped to make him many friends. He took a great delight in music and was for many years the principal leader in singing at church. Only a short time before he died he sang "Nearer My God to Thee." The immediate cause of his death was heart trouble. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Isaac Fish, assisted by Rev. TWO MEN KILLED BY TRAIN

Machine Struck While Crossing Railroad Track.

Evansville, Ind., June 20.—Two men were killed and another was injured seriously when an automobile was struck by a C. & E. I. train at Inglefield, six miles north of here. Arthur Budinger, age twenty-two, was killed instantly and Harry Smith, age twenty-eight, died four hours after the accident. Nelson Meyer, age twenty-eight, was injured internally and physicians believe he may die.

The three men were musicians in the orchestra at the Motor club, and had left the club to go to Darmstadt for chickens to serve at the evening meal. As their machine was crossing the tracks it was struck by a freight train.

Those Convicted to Be Interred.

One of the worst rain storms in the Leesville vicinity for many years occurred Sunday about twelve o'clock. The rain poured for nearly one and a half hours and the creeks were very high in a very short time. Many were caught away from home, it being church and baptismal day. Only seven converts were baptized before the creek became high and muddy. It was the largest crowd ever seen at a baptismal service at the Wilcox bridge, and many started for home on the approach of the storm but were caught before they reached home.

Quite a number that rented corn ground in the bottoms are having trouble getting their corn planted on account of so much rain, and few that planted corn can scarcely find the corn for weeds.

Obituary.

After a prolonged illness, Hester Trueblood passed away June 19, 1916. She was the daughter of William and Emeline Martin. Born, June 14th, 1844, and at the time of her death was 71 years, 11 months, and 25 days of age.

Three brothers survive her. J. G. Martin of Medora, Albert and David Martin of this vicinity, and quite a number of relatives and friends to mourn her death. She was united in marriage to John A. Trueblood March 27, 1862. To this union was born one daughter, Anna, who preceded father and mother to the grave in 1892.

Mrs. Trueblood confessed her Savior in youth. Her church membership was with the Church of Christ at Leesville. She was highly respected by all who knew her. She faithfully adhered to "the doctrine once delivered to the saints" living a consistent Christian life full of hope and cheer. She was left alone about one year ago when her husband died but attentive relatives and friends were faithful at all times. The community in which she lived has lost a faithful, helpful Christian member and the church a noble, soul, whose members do not mourn as those who have no hope. Interment here at the Church of Christ cemetery. Elder Richard Box of Williams officiated in funeral discourse.

A Romance of Early Days in the Middle West

Author of "Keith of the Border," "My Lady of Doubt," "The Maid of the Forest," etc.

D'Artigny did not answer at once, his eyes looking out on the white crested waters of the lake.

"No, madame," he said at length gravely. "The last time Chevet was seen alive, so far as I now know, was when he left the boats in company with Monsieur Cassion to return to the Mission house. Could there be any reason why Cassion should desire the death of Chevet?"

"I know of none. My uncle felt bitter over the concealment of my fortune, and no doubt the two had exchanged words, but there was no open quarrel. Chevet was rough and headstrong, yet he was not killed in fight, for the knife thrust was from behind."

"Ay, a coward's blow. Chevet possessed no papers of value?"

"If so, no mention was ever made to me. But, monsieur, you are still wet, and must be cold in this wind. Why do you not build the fire, and dry your clothing?"

"The wind does have an icy feel," he admitted, "but this is a poor spot. Up yonder in the wood shadow there is more warmth, and besides it affords better outlook for the canoes. Have you strength now to climb the bluff?"

"The path did not appear difficult, and it is dreary enough here. I will try."

I did not even require his aid, and was at the top nearly as soon as he. It was a pleasant spot, a heavy forest growing almost to the edge, but with green carpet of grass on which one could rest, and gaze off across the wide waste of waters. When I finally turned away I found that D'Artigny had already lighted a fire with flint and steel in a little hollow within the forest. He called to me to join him.

"There is nothing to see," he said, "and the warmth is welcome. You had no glimpse of the boats?"

"No," I admitted. "Do you really believe they survived?"

"There was no reason why they should not, if properly handled. I have controlled canoes in far worse storms. They are doubtless safely ashore beyond the point yonder. You are not afraid to be left alone?"

"No," in surprise. "Where are you going?"

"To learn more of our surroundings and arrange some traps for wild game. I will not be away long, but someone should remain here to signal any canoe returning in search."

I watched him disappear among the trees without regret or slightest sense of fear at thus being left alone. The fire burned brightly and I rested where the grateful warmth put new life into my body. The silence was profound, depressing, and a sense of intense loneliness stole over me. I felt a desire to get away from the gloom of the woods, and climbed the bank to where I could look out once more across the waters.

The view outspread before me revealed nothing new; the same dread waste of water extended to the horizon, while down the shore no movement was visible. As I rested there, oppressed by the loneliness, I felt little hope that the others of our party had escaped without disaster.

D'Artigny did not believe his own words; I even suspected that he had gone now alone to explore the shore line; seeking to discover the truth and the real fate of our companions. At first this conception of our situation startled me, and yet, strange as it may seem, my realization brought no deep regret. I was conscious of a feeling of freedom, of liberty, such as had not been mine since we departed from Quebec. I was no longer watched, spied upon, my every movement ordered, my speech criticized. More, I was delivered from the hated presence of Cassion, ever reminding me that I was his wife, and continually threatening to exercise his authority. Ay, and I was with D'Artigny, alone with him, and the joy of this was so deep that I came to a sudden realization of the truth—I loved him.

In a way I must have known this before, yet, not until that moment did the fact dawn upon me in full acknowledgment. I sank my head on my hands, my breath quickened by surprise, by shame, and felt my cheeks burn. I loved him, and believed he loved me. I knew then that all the happiness of life centered in this one fact; while between us arose the shadow of Cassion, my husband. True I loved him not; true I was to him wife only in name; true our marriage was a thing of shame, yet no less a fact, no less a barrier. I was a La Chesnayne to whom honor was a religion; a Catholic bowing humbly to the vow of Holy church; a French woman taught that marriage was a sacred rite.

The knowledge of my love for D'Artigny brought me more fear than pleasure. I dare not dream, or hope; I must escape his presence while I retained moral strength to resist temptation. I got to my feet, not knowing what I could do, yet with a wild conception of returning to the beach, and seeking to find a passage southward. I would go now along the shore, before D'Artigny came back, and meet those returning canoes. In such action lay my only safety—he would find me gone, would trace me along the sand, yet before I could be caught, I would have met the others, and thus escape the peril of being alone with him again.

Even as I reached this decision, something arose in my throat and choked me, for my eyes saw just outside the curve of the shore line a canoe emerge from the shadows of the bluff. I cannot picture the reaction, the sudden shrinking fear which, in that instant, mastered me. They were coming, seeking me; coming to drag me back into slavery; coming to denounce D'Artigny of crime and demand his life.

I sank down out of sight, yet my decision was made in an instant. It did not seem to me then as though another course could be taken. That D'Artigny was innocent I had no doubt. I loved him, this I no longer denied to myself, and I could not possibly betray the man to the mad vengeance of Cassion. I peered forth, across the ridge of earth concealing me from observation, at the distant canoe. It was too far away for me to be certain of its occupants, yet I assured myself that Indians were at the paddles, while three others, whose dress designated them as whites, occupied places in the boat. I turned and ran down the bank to where the fire yet glowed dully in the hollow, emitting a faint spiral of blue smoke, dug dirt up with my hands and covered the coals, until they were completely extinguished. Then I crept back to the bluff summit and lay down to watch.

The canoe rounded the curve in the shore and headed straight across toward where I rested in concealment. Their course would keep them too far away from the little strip of sand on which we had landed to observe the imprint of our feet or the pile of wood D'Artigny had flung down. I observed this with an intense feeling of relief as I peered cautiously out from my covert.

I could see now clearly the faces of those in the canoe—the dark, expressionless countenances of the Indians, and the three white men, all gazing intently at the shore line, as they swept past, a soldier in the bow, and Pere Allouez and Cassion at the stern, the latter standing, gripping the steering paddle. The sound of his rasping, disagreeable voice reached me first.

"This is the spot," he exclaimed, pointing. "I saw that headland just before the storm struck. But there is no wreck here, no sign of any landing. What is your judgment, pere?"

"That further search is useless, monsieur," answered the priest. "We have covered the entire coast, and found no sign of any survivor; no doubt they are all lost."

"'Tis likely true, for there was small hope for any swimmer in such a sea. Go on, round the long point yonder, and if there is no sign there we will return. 'Tis my thought they were all drowned, and there is no need of our seeking longer. Pull on boys, and let us finish the job."

They rounded the point, the pere talking earnestly, but the canoe so far away I could not overhear his words.

Cassion paid small heed to what he urged, but, at last, angrily bade him be still, and, after a glance into the narrow basin beyond, swung the bow of the canoe about and headed it southward, the return course further off shore. The Indians paddled with renewed energy and in a few moments they were so far away their faces were indistinguishable, and I ventured to sit on the bank, my gaze still on the vanishing canoe.

So intent was I that I heard no sound of approaching footsteps, and knew nothing of D'Artigny's presence until he spoke.

"What is that yonder—a canoe?" I started, shrinking back, suddenly realizing what I had done, and the construction he might place upon my action.

"Yes," I answered faintly. "It—it is a canoe."

"But it is headed south; it is going away," he paused, gazing into my face. "Did it not come this far?"

"Yes, monsieur; but listen. No, do not touch me. Perhaps it was all wrong, yet I thought it right. I lay here hidden from view and watched them; I extinguished the fire so they could not see the smoke. They came so near I could hear their voices, and distinguish their words, yet I let them pass."

"Who were in the canoe?"

"Besides the Indians, Cassion, Pere Allouez and the soldier Descartes. Do you realize, monsieur, why I chose to remain unseen? Why I have done what must seem an unwomanly act?"

"No, madame, yet I cannot deem your reason an unworthy one—yet wait; could it be fear for my life?" "It was that, and that only, monsieur. The truth came to me in a flash when I first perceived the canoe approaching yonder. I felt that hate rather than love urged Cassion to make search for us. I feel I have chosen right, monsieur, and yet I must trust you to never cause me to regret that I am the wife of Monsieur Cassion."

To my surprise his face brightened, his eyes smiling, as he bowed low before me.

"Your confidence shall not be betrayed, madame," he said gallantly. "I pledge you my discretion whatever circumstances may arise. There is no cur in the D'Artigny strain, and I fight my own battles. Some day I shall be face to face with Francois Cassion, and if then I fail to strike home it will be memory of your faith which restrains my hand. And now I rejoice that I can make your sacrifice less grievous."

"In what way, monsieur?"

"In that we are no longer entirely alone in our wilderness adventure. I have fortunately brought back with me a comrade, whose presence will rob Cassion of some sharpness of tongue—a soldier under Monsieur de la Durantaye, who has camp below at the portage to the Des Plaines. Out yonder I ran on to him, bearing some message from Green Bay—an old fellow, but with a gun at his shoulder, and a tongue with which to tell the truth on occasion. Come, madame, there is naught now you need to fear."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

SAN YGNACIO LONG UNEASY.

Threatened by Luis de la Rosa, the Bandit Leader, For Weeks.

San Ygnacio, where the latest raid by Mexican bandits took place, with a population of 200, is on the Texas side of the Rio Grande, about thirty-five miles south of Laredo and about forty-five miles north of Fort Ringgold, near Rio Grande city. Laredo is the nearest railroad station.

The town is a supply point for farmers and ranchmen in a remote region of Zapata county.

San Ygnacio and also Zapata, the county seat of Zapata county, had been threatened for weeks by Luis de la Rosa, the bandit leader of the states of Tamaulipas and Nuevo Leon. These towns are opposite the state of Tamaulipas. There is a ford at San Ygnacio, but the Rio Grande in that region is not fordable at this season of the year.

The last important raid on the Big Bend region at Glen Springs took place the first week in May, when a band of Mexican bandits descended upon the night encampment of a small body of United States troops. In the fight that followed four Americans were slain.

Since that raid a few minor forays have kept the guardians of American soil busy in the Big Bend country.

Hughes Desires Man Acceptable to Both Republicans and Progressives.

New York, June 20.—The selection of a Republican national chairman who shall be acceptable to the leaders of the Progressive party as well as to the workers of the older organization, is said now to be desired by Charles E. Hughes, the Republican presidential nominee.

The steering committee of the Republican national committee held its first conference with the candidate at the Hotel Astor. When it emerged former Senator W. Murray Crane declined to make any statement further than that the meeting had been merely preliminary and that the committee had adjourned, subject to the call of the chairman. Mr. Hughes would not amplify this statement.

"Not a single name was mentioned in connection with the chairmanship," said Senator Reed Smoot.

GENERAL ORDER TO GO OUT THIS WEEK

General Ralston Will Probably Call all Companies of Militiamen to Indianapolis Friday.

EACH UNIT IS ASSEMBLING

Captains of Various Indiana Companies Report They Are About Ready to Move Forward.

Indianapolis, June 20—The order for a general mobilization of the Indiana National Guard at Fort Harrison will go out from the office of Governor Ralston probably on Friday or Saturday of this week. That was the information given out by the Governor and Adj. Gen. Frank L. Bridges, following several conferences between the two officials and following a long-distance telephone communication between Bridges and a representative of the central department, United States Army, at Chicago.

Adj. Gen. Bridges and Governor Ralston will use their own judgment as to the proper time for mobilizing the guard, according to the present arrangements, and they will await no further order from the War Department at Washington.

In the meantime each unit of the guard is being assembled at its home station, ready to respond to the order for the general mobilization at Fort Harrison. Arrangements were being made last night for railroad transportation for the guardsmen from their various home armories to the Indianapolis mobilization camp.

The time for calling for the general mobilization will be dependent largely on the rapidity with which the various companies are recruited. If the recruiting is as satisfactory during the next few days as it was yesterday, undoubtedly the call will be issued for the latter part of this week. The recruiting was highly satisfactory yesterday and it was so much greater than anticipated by the officers of the militia that Adj. Gen. Bridges predicted last night that by today the entire membership will be increased to approximately 3,000 men.

Tentative plans for the organization of a third regiment of infantry are now under way, and by the time the members of the present guard are en route to the Mexican border, should they be called, it is possible the organization of a third unit of the state militia will have materialized. Adj. Gen. Bridges said last night that he probably will undertake the formation of an additional regiment, either for state service when the others are gone, or for its mustering into the Federal service.

According to information received by the guard officials shortly after 10 o'clock last night, the first twelve hours of assembling the state troops resulted in the bringing together of approximately 1,000 officers and enlisted men in all parts of the state. Incomplete reports from cities having guard units showed that 880 officers and men responded to the first summons and others were being sent for all night, so that the total was increasing.

The delay in getting the men to their respective stations was occasioned through the difficulty of locating some of them, it was explained by the commanding officers, and because of the fact that some of the men were away from their homes when the summons came.

The report last night that a definite date for the concentration of troops at Fort Harrison would be decided on today by Governor Ralston and Adj. Gen. Bridges was discredited by the latter. The date hardly can be fixed today, it was said, on account of there being so many contingencies dependent on the final fixings of the date.

When the men go into camp at Fort Harrison they will find one of the most complete outfits that has ever been fixed for a body of soldiers. The camp has been in process of preparation for the citizen-soldiers who were to enter the training camp this summer, and now that all training camps have been called off the equipment is there ready for the guard. Water pipes have been installed, sanitary equipment has been placed in shape, dining shacks have been erected, cooking places provided for and everything necessary for the entrance of the militia has been looked after, so that all that will be necessary for the guardsmen to do will be to enter the place and take possession.

When the guardsmen reach Fort Harrison they will go into hard training immediately. Muscles, which have become flabby through inactivity, will be whipped into shape by hard, outdoor work, and the powers of endurance of the guard members will be increased by strenuous labor, proper exercise, the right kind of food and general outdoor life. Training will be the order every day, and when the militiamen go to the border they will be in condition to withstand the rigorous life that will be mapped out for them.

It was estimated last night that the guard will be at Fort Harrison only until such time as the full equipment can be supplied them by the government. Wagons will be provided by the War Department, horses will be furnished for the transportation of equipment and other material will be furnished for the work at the border.

It was estimated by guard officials last night that the militia will remain at Fort Harrison from two to four weeks, waiting for equipment and waiting orders.

GROTHERSVILLE BOARD GIVES NEW FRANCHISE

Frank Brady, an Attorney, Given Right to Erect Plant—Contract for Forty Street Lamps.

TWENTY-FOUR HOUR SERVICE

The town board of Grotherville Monday night granted to Frank Brady, an attorney in that town, a franchise to operate an electric light plant there. The question of granting a franchise has been before the town board for several months. Brady agreed to furnish a twenty-four hour service with rates practically the same as are charged in this city. He also agreed to purchase from town the wires and poles now in the streets. The town board entered into a contract with Brady to maintain forty street lamps.

The Seymour Mutual Telephone Company also asked for the franchise. Brady's first proposition was practically accepted but later the board decided to take it under consideration. The Seymour company then asked for a franchise and proposed to operate the electric light plant in connection with their telephone exchange and keep one man on duty there all the time. The telephone company is generating electricity with a small dynamo and gasoline engine and is supplying one business house with current. The question is now presented as to the right of this company to sell current to any other party though he be located in the same block with the exchange.

Brady has agreed to erect the plant and be ready to furnish current for both public and domestic use within a few months.

at the request of many parents who desire to have a competent athletic young man look after the boys during their summer recreation. Mr. Pruitt was here two years ago in charge of the Boy Scouts and his work pleased the boys and their parents very much.

The board also appointed a committee to locate and look after the erection of the Shelter house which was ordered some time ago for erection this summer.

The citizens park board express themselves as very anxious to make the park best serve the welfare of all Seymour citizens. If there is any cause for complaint at any time or any suggestion that will improve the park they will be glad to receive and consider carefully any suggestions, so that the usefulness and beauty of the park may be preserved and improved as opportunity offers. The members of the board are: Fred Able, chairman, W. L. Johnson, N. Kaufman, A. H. Ahlbrand, Mrs. B. F. Schneck, Mrs. M. S. Bligh.
